Chairman of the Board

Marvin L. Warner
Chairman of the Board

There is a hallmark in every phase of Ambassador Marvin L. Warner's life—an indication of quality and excellence. This is reflected in his professional career.

One of America's most successful business and civic leaders, the Alabama native is the principal owner and chairman of the board of the Birmingham Stallions.

The United States Ambassador to Switzerland from 1977 until 1979, Mr. Warner also is a founding member of the United States Football League.

Shortly after establishing the Stallions franchise in his hometown, he said:

"It will take a lot of hard work to accomplish our mission, to build a successful franchise. That is our goal, however, and we will do it.

"We are committed to bringing championship football to the Football Capital of the South and I am convinced Birmingham will support it."

Such dedication to quality and excellence is seemingly an inborn quality with the Honor Society graduate of Phillips High School. This is evident from an experience in his early childhood.

"I have always loved horses," he said. "So as a youngster I used to work at the old Green Hills Riding Academy just to get free rides. I think it cost $1 a ride in those days."

His drive was obvious in other areas too.

His family owned a successful restaurant and bakery in downtown Birmingham. Some thought he would follow in his father's footsteps.

The determined youngster had other ideas though. He wanted to be a lawyer. So he entered the University of Alabama, earning a B.S. degree in commerce and an LL.B. (Law) degree in five years.

Called to active duty before Pearl Harbor, he served five years including a Western Pacific stint and was relieved of active duty after World War II as a major. While stationed in Washington, D.C., he earned a Masters Degree in law at George Washington University.

"I wanted to be another Clarence Darrow," Ambassador Warner once said. "But when I came back from service, I was offered $150 a month in a law office. I couldn't afford that. So I went into real estate and insurance. But housing was needed for returning veterans including myself"—and he began building small, then larger projects under the National Housing act.

When the housing market in Alabama dried up, he said, "I began looking for other areas to go. The midwest was very active."

Chairman of the Board

"Cincinnati was a good area and had a much larger market in which to expand. I moved to Cincinnati in 1951 and liked it very much. But you always miss your hometown."

Within a short period of time, the industrious gentleman became one of the State of Ohio's most honored civic and business leaders. Since 1951 he has received the State of Ohio Governor's Award for distinguished service; is a past chairman and member of the Ohio Board of Regents; was a member of the Governor's Commission on Housing and Urban Development; served as chairman of the State of Ohio's United Nations Day (in 1972), and, is past Grand Commodore of the Association of Ohio Commodores, civic leaders of the state who are selected by the governor.

In 1968 he was a member of the United States Delegation to the 23rd General Assembly of the United Nations.

This marks Ambassador Warner's fourth foray into professional sports. Long before the birth of the Stallions, he was involved in thoroughbred breeding and horse racing at his farms in Cincinnati and Lexington, Ky.

"I didn't even own a horse until I was about 33 years old," he said. "Then I got a couple of old pleasure horses."

From these purchases, his love of horses grew. Today he owns over 200 thoroughbreds.

His most famous horse, Stalwart, won the richest two-year-old race in history in 1982 at Hollywood Park, Calif. The purse was $714,000.

His second and third ventures into professional sports were with the New York Yankees baseball team of the American League and the Tampa Bay Buccaneers of the National Football league.

"George Steinbrenner and I were serving on the Ohio Board of Regents together when he approached me one day about a business proposal," Ambassador Warner said. "He said he was planning to buy a major league baseball team and said if I wanted a piece of it (10 percent) to send him a check. I did and it turned out the team was the Yankees."

A couple of years later, another Birmingham native, Hugh Culverhouse, was putting together a plan to buy the Buccaneers. It was to be an expansion franchise in the NFL and he called on his long-time friend and classmate at the University of Alabama, to be a part of the group. Ambassador Warner bought 48 percent with the stipulation that Culverhouse could buy his stock.

Ambassador Warner is chairman and chief executive officer of ComBanks Corp. and Great American Banks, Inc., of Fla., and, is principal owner of Warner National Corp. of Cincinnati, a financial holding company.

In 1982—"in one of the most gratifying experiences of my life," he said—Ambassador Warner was presented an honorary Doctor of Law degree in ceremonies on the University of Alabama campus in Tuscaloosa. He holds a similar degree from American College at Leysin, Switzerland.

Vice-Chairman of the Board

Marvin L. Warner, Jr.
Vice chairman of the Board

Marvin L. "Mark" Warner, Jr. has been to the Winner's Circle in business and horse racing. Now he is trying to get there in football.

That is his major objective; a goal he shares with his father.

"Birmingham, the State of Alabama and the entire Southeast deserves a winning football team; a championship effort from the Stallions," Mr. Warner has said. "And that is what we hope to accomplish."

The vice chairman of the board for the Stallions, Mr. Warner is the owner and general manager of Warnerton Farms. That is a thoroughbred breeding and racing operation in Lexington, Ky.

One of Warnerton Farms' horses, Stalwart, won the richest two-year-old race in history in 1982 at Hollywood Park, Calif. The purse delivered to the Winner's Circle that afternoon was $714,000.

In addition to his farm, Mr. Warner currently serves on the board of directors of several companies. Among these are Warner National Corporation of Cincinnati, a financial holding company; Home State Savings; Great American Banks, Inc., of Orlando and Miami, Fla., respectively, and, ComBanks Corporation.

He has worked in real estate and property management for Tower Management of Cincinnati.

Mr. Warner is a Magna Cum Laude graduate of the University of Cincinnati. He graduated in 1980, with a Bachelor's Degree in Business Administration majoring in finance.

He is a member of the Phi Eta Sigma.

Jerry Sklar
President

His wife mentioned it first. It was one Sunday afternoon several years ago, while watching a National Football League game on television.

"You really belong in professional sports," Mrs. Jerry Sklar told her husband, after he had successfully anticipated and predicted the play that the offensive team would run.

Jerry Sklar leaned back into his cushioned chair recently and laughed at the memory. "Since I was six years old, I have been an ardent sports fan; notwithstanding any sport. I am one of those guys who reads boxscores and every word in The Sporting News."

Today he is more than just "an ardent sports fan." Today he is the chief executive officer of a professional football team. The 46-year-old Louise, Miss., native is president of the Birmingham Stallions of the United States Football League. "The last 40 years of my life," Sklar continued, "I have been a great fan of all sports, both amateur and professional and I read everything I can about them. I am not an expert. I am a lay person, but any time the opportunity has presented itself I have spoken to as many people in professional sports as possible to learn all I can about this business. I want to learn."

Sklar, son of the late Mayor William Sklar and Mrs. Esther Sklar of Louise, Miss., became president of the Stallions on July 20, 1982. He was hired by the team's principal owner and chairman of the board, Ambassador Marvin L. Warner. "We—my family and I—were living in New Orleans at the time of Ambassador's first telephone call to me," Sklar said. "I had known the Ambassador for several years, having met him first when we lived in Birmingham. He came to New Orleans to visit with us and then he asked me to fly to Cincinnati, his home, to talk further about the position with the Stallions."

Once onboard as the club's chief operating officer, Sklar immediately began rolling up his sleeves. There was much work to be done and he was ready. The club had to have a head football coach. So his first mission was to hire one. "Ambassador Warner had talked with Rollie Dotsch, who at that time was the offensive line coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers. So he asked me to contact Coach Dotsch; to sit down with him and determine if he was the man that we wanted to head up the football operation of our club."

Upon their first meeting, Sklar and the one-time Michigan State lineman developed a mutual admiration society. And why not, the parallel of their lives is amazing. Both were from towns of 450 people—Dotsch from Escanaba, Mich., and Sklar from Louise. Both were standout athletes in high school, the coach starring in football, baseball and basketball. The new Stallions president earned athletic letters during his career at Louise High in football, basketball, baseball, track and tennis. More importantly, however, Dotsch fit the mold of what Sklar wanted in a head football coach.

The team president explained: "I was looking for these things in a football coach: A person who was a fundamentalist and a teacher. I wanted a tough, hard-working coach, but at the same time a person who could walk off the field, put on a coat and tie and project himself as a real leader. And I think that is exactly what Rollie Dotsch is.

"Those qualities—to me—are the makings of a winning organization. And Rollie Dotsch typifies all of those characteristics."

Sklar, a 1954, graduate of the University of Alabama, moved to Birmingham shortly after graduating with a degree in accounting. He became an executive trainee with Loveman's Department Store here. A short time later, however, he entered the military with an R.O.T.C. commission from the University. At the end of his tour of duty, he returned to Loveman's where he rose to the position of President in 1978. In April of 1980 he was named president of Maison Blanche Department Store of New Orleans.

Sklar, married to the former Miss Jean Marcus of Vicksburg, Miss., is the father of two children. The couple's son, Brad, is a junior at the University of Texas majoring in accounting. A daughter, Suzanne, is a sophomore at Texas majoring in communications.

Rollie Dotsch
Head coach

There was no hesitancy in his voice that crystal clear first Thursday in September of 1982. His eyes didn't search the ceiling, trying to find the proper words to express his thoughts.

Rollie Dotsch, newly named head football coach of the Birmingham Stallions of the United States Football League, fired quickly with his reply.

"As far as my football orientation—or philosophy—is concerned, I am probably a little bit more of a reckless type of coach. I like to get after it good.

"We will take a few chances, but they will be calculated risks.

"On defense," he continued, "I'd like to be aggressive, certainly. And I'd like to be, at sometimes, a little bit unorthodox; give people some looks that might not be widely recognized or accepted as sound. But they will be sound.

"I think that one thing that I have learned from coaching both sides of the ball in the pros is that you learn to appreciate, I think, certain things in certain terms of offense and defense.

"Offensively, of course, we are going to throw the ball. And hopefully we are going to be wide open. I have learned from the good teams that I have been with, you have to run with the ball and you have to run with it well.

"So it is not going to be just an aerial circus. Hopefully we are going to have a running game that will complement our pro passing game. And I think this is very important. I think it might be something that some people overlook. They might think that it's just a game of wind 'er up and let 'er go. I don't think that is true necessarily, however. I know that at one time or another you have to be able to run the ball, whether it's third-and-one or third-and-12. There are times and situations when you have to run with it...and you'd better do it well."

Dotsch comes to the Stallions with a wealth of experience at all levels of coaching; preps, collegiate and professional.

He earned his first reputation in football as a tough-running fullback and hard-hitting defensive tackle at a small parochial high school in Lansing, Mich.

"I was one of the coaches who recruited him for Michigan State," said former Spartans Head Coach Duffy Daugherty, now retired and living in Santa Barbara, Calif. "Rollie was an extraordinary player for us at Michigan State. Nobody ever had to raise their voice to him—to bawl him out—or tell him something over and over. He was reliable, learned very quickly and invariably performed up to the expectations of all his coaches at all times."

"Both ways," Dotsch said, "when I was in college, the rules said you had to play both ways, offense and defense. I was an alternate in 1952, the year that we won the national championship. I started, then, in my senior year when we won (beating UCLA 28-20) in the Rose Bowl."

Upon graduation, he spent two seasons at Escanaba, Mich. High. "It was a small school—Class B—of about 600-or-700 students, I suppose. Anyway, our second year there we did quite well."

His first venture into collegiate coaching came in 1958. That was when he was named defensive coordinator at Northern Michigan. The 1960 team finished with an 8-1 record and advanced to the semi-finals of the NAIA Championship.

Dotsch stepped into NCAA football next, becoming defensive backfield coach at the University of Colorado. "We won the Big Eight Conference in 1961 and played in the Jan. 1, 1962 Orange Bowl, where LSU beat us 25-7."

Head Coach

A short time later, he got a telephone call from long-time friend Dan Devine, then head coach at the University of Missouri. He spent 1962-1965 on the Tigers staff.

In 1966, the new Birmingham leader was offered his first head coaching position.

"When the opportunity came to become a head coach at Northern Michigan," he said, "that was, of course, home country. And it had a lot of appeal for me. I was there five years—the last two as head coach and director of athletics—and we were quite successful."

Indeed, Dotsch's teams were 33-15-1 during that period. And he was twice named his district's coach of the year.

In 1972 he entered professional football for the first time. He was named offensive line coach of the Green Bay Packers.

That first season, the Pack, led by Alabama native Scott Hunter at quarterback, won the National Football League's Central Division championship. It lost in the next round of the playoffs to Washington, the eventual National Football Conference champion and Super Bowl participant.

Dotsch was with the Packers until 1974, when he joined the New England Patriots as linebackers coach. In 1977 he moved to Detroit in the same capacity.

The Stallions coach really found his niche in football acclaim during the next five years. Found it in Pittsburgh. It was there that he gained the reputation—according to Steelers all-pro center Mike Webster—of "being one of the game's greatest teachers. He is really strong on fundamentals and technique."

Away from football, Dotsch "enjoys many things. I like to fish; I like to hunt, and, I like to play golf. I'm not the greatest golfer in the world by any stretch—I usually shoot in the middle-to-high 80's—but I enjoy it.

"And I like music. I especially enjoy singing country and western songs. I love country-western music, in fact—Kenny Rogers, Tammy Wynette, the whole ball of wax."

Blessed with a "pretty decent voice, I guess," the coach said, "Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw was going to take me to Nashville. He knows a lot of people in that business and we talked some about going there and cutting a record.

"We never got around to that, though."

Dotsch, born Feb. 14, 1933, is married to the former Miss Carol Thomas of Escanaba, Mich. They have three children: Michael, 27, Helen, 22, and, Molly, 7.

Hank Kuhlmann
Assistant head coach

Henry Norman "Hank" Kuhlmann is Rollie Dotsch's kind of coach: "He's tough, knowledgeable and an excellent teacher." Thus with that compliment, the 45-year-old Missourian was introduced in early January as the assistant head coach of the Birmingham Stallions.

"Hank also will be in charge of our passing game, working with the quarterbacks and running backs," Dotsch said. "And I promise you one thing, he will have them ready and wanting to play.

"If they don't want to play, he won't have them around long."

Kuhlmann joined the Stallions after spending five years with the Chicago Bears of the National Football League. He has eight years total experience in professional football.

A native of St. Louis, Mo., he was a stellar performer in two sports—football and baseball—at the University of Missouri. He was, in fact, All-Big Eight Conference in both sports.

Upon his graduation, he signed a contract with the St. Louis baseball Cardinals. He spent four years in that organization, the best thing being 1961 when he hit .310 with Winnipeg of the Pioneer League.

After spending 1962 with the Tulsa Oilers of the Pacific Coast League (Triple A), he decided to retire from baseball and returned to the University of Missouri. For six of his nine seasons on the Tigers coaching staff, he served as defensive backfield coach. The head coach at the time was the man he had played for there as a hard-running fullback, Dan Devine.

One of Kuhlmann's defensive backs there was Carl Reese, who is today the Stallions' defensive coordinator. And a fellow assistant coach for three years there was Dotsch.

In 1972, Devine was named head coach of the Green Bay Packers. He asked Kuhlmann—and Dotsch—to join him. They were there three seasons.

From 1975 through 1977, the Stallions assistant head coach worked—for Devine—at Notre Dame University. He coached running backs and also worked with the special teams.

Kuhlmann, born Oct. 6, 1937, returned to professional football in 1978. He joined the Bears as backfield and special teams coach.

He is married to the former Miss Donna Pickles of St. Louis, Mo. They have two children: Jeff, 13 and Tracey, 6.

senior and captain of the team. "He was quite a player for us," Dotsch said. "He was outstanding in our (1966) Sugar Bowl victory. We beat Heisman Trophy winner (Steve Spurrier) and Florida that day 20-18."

Spurrier is now the head coach of the Tampa Bay Bandits of the USFL.

Upon Reese's graduation from Missouri, he served for one year as a graduate assistant. The next season he joined Dotsch, who had become head coach at Northern Michigan College, as an assistant coach.

The Springfield, Mo., native worked at Northern Michigan College for three seasons. Then he moved to Southern Illinois University.

He spent four years at East Carolina University; one year at the University of Virginia, and two years at the University of Kansas as defensive coordinator.

He returned to Missouri as defensive coordinator in 1977.

Reese, born June 15, 1943, won three athletic letters at Missouri as a fullback. He graduated with a degree in education and later took a master's degree from East Carolina.

He is married to the former Miss Pamela Cornwell of Springfield, Mo. They are the parents of a daughter, Jenny 15, and a son, Andy 7.

His reputation was earned and his boss is confident he will prove that with the Stallions.

Carl Reese, promoted on New Year's Day to defensive coordinator, joined the Birmingham franchise with the tag: "One of college football's brightest and most innovative young defensive coordinators."

He earned that acclaim in five brilliant seasons at the University of Missouri. During that time his Tiger defenses were consistently ranked among the best in not only the Big Eight Conference but the nation.

The 39-year-old coach joined the Stallions staff in late November. It marked a reunion for him and his new head coach.

Stallions head coach Rollie Dotsch was an assistant at Missouri when Reese was a 1965

senior and captain of the team. "He was quite a player for us," Dotsch said. "He was outstanding in our (1966) Sugar Bowl victory. We beat Heisman Trophy winner (Steve Spurrier) and Florida that day 20-18."

Upon Reese's graduation from Missouri, he served for one year as a graduate assistant. The next season he joined Dotsch, who had become head coach at Northern Michigan College, as an assistant coach.

The Springfield, Mo., native worked at Northern Michigan College for three seasons. Then he moved to Southern Illinois University.

He spent four years at East Carolina University; one year at the University of Virginia, and two years at the University of Kansas as defensive coordinator.

He is married to the former Miss Pamela Cornwell of Springfield, Mo. They are the parents of a daughter, Jenny 15, and a son, Andy 7.

Pat James

Defensive line coach

The Pat James Story is packed with the excitement of football success. He has experienced the thrill of victory at every career stop in the game.

It began as "a small, but tough hard-nosed kid" in New Boston, Ohio, according to a lifelong acquaintance. "He didn't have the most ability in the world, but there was nobody who ever came down the pike who was tougher or more determined to win."

Such desire earned James a football grant-in-aid to the University of Kentucky. The Wildcats head coach at the time was Paul "Bear" Bryant, just beginning his climb to coaching immortality.

"Those were four of the very greatest years of my life," the Stallions coach said, "just playing for and being exposed to such a great man as Coach Bryant. He was tough, but he was fair and didn't ask any more of us than he was willing to give."

Bryant apparently thought so much of James that he offered his three-letterman offensive guard a job at the end of his eligibility.

"I needed some credits before graduation," James said, "and I wanted to coach anyway. So I took the job." After obtaining his degree he remained at UK and earned a master's degree.

In 1952 he became head football coach at Danville, Ky., High School where his team won nine games and lost one. He returned to the University of Kentucky and Coach Bryant's staff in 1953.

After one year on the Wildcats staff, he went with Bryant to Texas A&M (in 1954). They were there four seasons before leaving to coach at the University of Alabama.

James remained with the Crimson Tide until 1963. At that time he joined the coaching staff at Louisiana State University. Two years later he moved to the University of Oklahoma where he coached under head coaches Jim McKenzie and Chuck Fairbanks, now head coach of the New Jersey Generals of the USFL.

He was assistant head coach and defensive coordinator under Fairbanks from 1966 until 1969. He left coaching in 1969 and opened a successful bar in Birmingham, which he owned until mid-1982.

James, born Nov. 13, 1930, is married to the former Miss Eloise Ewbank of Warsaw, Ky. They have two children: Mike 23, who owns an upholstery business in Birmingham, and Cindy 21, a counselor at the University of South Carolina.

John Mitchell
Linebackers coach

In the State of Alabama, the name of John Mitchell has a legitimate All-America ring to it, And with proper justification.

The Stallions linebacker coach was a consensus A-A defensive end for the Crimson Tide in 1972. He played there two seasons for Paul "Bear" Bryant.

And it is the legendary Bama coach who is responsible for the 31-year-old Mobile native being in his present profession.

"At the end of my senior year, Coach asked me if I would like to coach," Mitchell said. "I told him that I thought I would, so he offered me a fulltime position on his staff.

"I stayed there for five years."

In 1977, Mitchell left Alabama to join Coach Lou Holtz at the University of Arkansas. He worked with Razorback defensive ends until joining the Stallions in early January of 1983.

"I am delighted that John decided to join us," said Birmingham head coach Rollie Dotsch. "In addition to being a fine young gentleman, he is an excellent football coach. He proved that first at Alabama and later at the University of Arkansas.

"And I have every confidence that he will do an equally outstanding job for us."

Mitchell was a two-sport—football and basketball—star at Williamson High School in Mobile.

Football Operations

Upon his graduation, he signed a football grant-in-aid with Eastern Arizona Junior College in Thatcher, Ariz. He played there for two seasons and then transferred to Alabama.

In his first year with the Tide varsity, he earned All-Southeastern Conference honors. He repeated that accomplishment, along with All-America attention, as a senior.

Mitchell, born Oct. 14, 1950, is married to the former Miss Joyce Crawford of Eutaw, Ala. They have no children.

Rich McGeorge Receivers and tight ends coach

If talent were a transferrable coach-to-player commodity, the Stallions' receivers and tight ends corps would be among the elite of all professional football. Especially when you consider who will be coaching them.

In nine sparkling seasons in the National Football League, Rich McGeorge was the epitome of THE tight end. His four-time selection to the Pro Bowl from the Green Bay Packers will attest to that.

A sure-handed receiver who could punish defenders once he caught the ball, he also was a lethal blocker. He was most effective leading interference on any sweep.

His 175 receptions yet remains a Packers career record for tight ends.

The 34-year-old Virginia native retired from the NFL in 1978. Rather than go right into coaching, he decided to become a stock broker and went into business in Winston-Salem, N.C., his wife's hometown.

"After almost two years in that business," he said, "I decided that I wanted to get back in football. So I joined the staff at Duke University, trying to coach and work in the securities business at the same time.

"After about three months, I decided to leave the securities business and concentrate totally on football."

He joined the Stallions from the Duke staff.

McGeorge was a highly recruited schoolboy athlete in Roanoke, Va., his hometown. He turned down several major college grants-in-aid and chose to attend small Elon College in Elon, N.C.

There he became one of the school's greatest athletes. He was a two-time National Intercollegiate Athletic Association and Associated Press Little All-American in football. He still holds virtually every Elon College record for pass receiving.

He caught the eyes of the National Football League immediately. And with good reason. All he did in four smashing seasons with the Elon varsity was catch 224 passes for 3,486 yards and 31 touchdowns.

As a result, the Packers made him their No. 1 pick in the players draft of 1970. He was the 16th player chosen nationwide.

McGeorge, born Sept. 14, 1948, is married to the former Miss Bonnie Moore of Winston-Salem. They have two children, sons Randy 10, and Jason 9.

Jim Hilyer

Special teams, strength and conditioning coach

In less than an hour after their first meeting, Birmingham's head coach was to say later, Jim Hilyer had a job with the Stallions if he wanted it. And he did.

"His experience and expertise will help our program tremendously," Rollie Dotsch said after announcing the appointment. "Jim Hilyer knows what it takes to win in professional football. He also has experience in the Southeastern Conference, which will help us tremendously in many ways."

Thus the one-time Washington Redskins and Auburn University assistant was named the Stallions special teams—strength and conditioning—coach.

A native of Sylacauga, Ala., Hilyer spent three seasons (1973-75) in the National Football League with the Washington Redskins. During this time he was strength, assistant defensive line and special teams coach under George Allen, now head coach of the Chicago Blitz of the USFL.

After a standout prep career at Sylacauga High School, the Stallions coach played for two seasons at Itawamba Junior College in Fulton, Miss. He played his final two collegiate years at Stetson University in Deland, Fla.

He was a high school football coach from 1957 until 1963, at which time he became linebacker and strength coach at Mississippi State. From 1967 through 1968 he was a scout for the Miami Dolphins of the NFL.

In 1968 he became an assistant coach in charge of defensive ends and strength conditioning at Auburn. He was there five years.

After his tenure with the Redskins, Hilyer returned to Auburn in 1976. He coached the junior varsity, special teams and kicking until 1981.

Hilyer, born July 1, 1935, holds a doctorate degree in Secondary Education/Educational Psychology from Mississippi State.

He is married to the former Miss Barbara McQueen of Atlanta, Ga. They have two daughters: Laurie, 22, a first year medical student at the University of Alabama in Birmingham, and, Lisa, 15, a sophomore in high school.

Bob Gates

Director of player personnel

The sun is usually not even out of bed in the mornings when Bob Gates flips on the light switch in his office. And it is always gone in the evenings when he leaves for home.

"A lot of nights we haven't even been able to run him out of here," says Head Coach Rollie Dotsch, with a small laugh. "He is one of the hardest working and most dedicated people I have ever met.

"When I hired him, I said that in time Bob Gates would prove to be the best director of player personnel in the United States Football League. And I think he has already proved that."

"Time is of no consequence," the 38-year-old Iowa native said upon taking the Stallions position.

"Whatever has to be done will be done and I pledge 105 percent to get that job done.

"I personally have set major goals of providing the organization and the community with the best possible players so as the end result will be pride in the Birmingham Stallions. And I can assure the community and the organization that I will do the utmost to provide them the best calibered football players that are to be had."

Gates joined the Stallions with a wealth of football experience, on the playing field, in coaching and in talent evaluation. He played three seasons at the University of Iowa and coached at prep and collegiate levels for 19 years.

A native of Shenandoath, Iowa, he lettered three seasons for the Hawkeyes. He did not play as a senior, however. He sustained a knee injury and missed the entire year.

From 1964 until 1966 he was an undergraduate assistant coach at Iowa, working with the offensive line. He did additional undergraduate study and coaching at Peru, Neb., State College in 1966 and 1967.

He taught and coached in public schools in Iowa, Nebraska and Minnesota until 1972. Then he joined the staff of Coach Cal Stolle at the University of Minnesota.

In 1979 he was named a part-time scout by the Buffalo Bills of the National Football League. His assignment was the Southeast.

Of his former employee, Bills director of player personnel Norm Pollom said: "During his time with us, I found Bob to be a very enthusiastic person and very knowledgeable about professional football and what it takes to play the game and win. He is a very conscientious person who relates to his personnel, not only the college coaches with whom he deals, but also with the players.

"He was very involved in the scouting and signing of such people as Joe Cribbs (Former Auburn University running back), Jerry Butler (ex-Clemson University wide receiver) and Byron Franklin (one-time Auburn receiver). Bob was very valuable to us and we hated like the dickens to lose him."

Gates, born July 15, 1944, is married to the former Miss Joyce Blackburn of Shenandoath, Iowa. They have one daughter, Wendi, 11.

The Stallions have four scouts—three part-time—who work under Gates' direction in player personnel. They are Leonard King, a 15-year veteran of the business; Jimmy Nipper, who is president of Aqua-Flow Equipment, Inc. of Dolomite, Ala.; Bill Wildermuth, a representative for Westavco, Ala. and Woody Peoples, a former all-pro offensive lineman with the San Francisco 49ers and Philadelphia Eagles of the NFL. Peoples worked for the United States Football League's scouting combine in 1982.

George Hayes
Director of security

Few people know his real first name. For years it has just been "Sarge."

For the record, he is George Hayes. He is the Stallions' director of security.

He still responds to "Sarge," though. After 23 years as an officer with the Birmingham Police Department, it is only natural he would answer to that.

The 47-year-old Birmingham native retired from the force in late January of this year with the rank of sergeant.

After completing his studies at Port Arthur College in Port Arthur, Tex., Hayes returned to Birmingham and joined the police force in 1960.

Married to the former Barbara Johnson of Birmingham, the couple has four children: daughters Mrs. Dianne Bobo, 27, and Terri, 22, and sons Bobby, 25, and Mike, 16. They live in Birmingham.

Mike Roberts
Head trainer

Rollie Dotsch is on record about it. "He wouldn't" he has said, "trade our medical training corps with anybody in professional football."

"Mike Roberts, our head trainer, has the expertise and the experience to be one of the very best football trainers anywhere," the Stallions head coach said. "With him and the Red Mountain Sports Medicine Center—which we will be working with—close by, we feel we will have the best medical training facilities of anybody."

A certified athletic trainer and emergency medical technician, Roberts is well versed and trained in his field. A native of Jackson, Ala., he holds a B.S. degree from the University of Montevallo and a sports administration M.S. degree from Eastern Kentucky University.

He also did additional study at the University of Kentucky.

Married to the former Miss Christine Brabner of Mobile, he joined the Stallions in mid-December of 1982. Prior to that time he was on the staff at the Red Mountain Sports Medicine Center in Birmingham.

Ron Richardson, physical therapist and director of the Red Mountain Sports Medicine Center, will serve as a part-time assistant trainer and consultant physical therapist for the rehabilitation of injured Stallions.

An orthopedic team—headed by Dr. Larry Lemak—also will serve the Stallions. Dr. Lemak's associates will be Drs. George Hill and Gaylon Rogers.

Football Operations

Tom Conner
Equipment manager

Tom Conner came to his position as equipment manager of the Stallions armed, according to Head Coach Rollie Dotsch, with two of the major prerequisites for the job: "Very conscientious and hard working."

"He came to us highly recommended," the coach has said. "And I have no doubt he will do a fine job. He is a very conscientious and hard-working young man who has a good background in this field."

The 24-year-old Conner has four years experience in this field. For two of his four seasons as a football manager at the University of Alabama, his primary responsibility was in equipment.

Upon his 1980 graduation he joined the athletic staff at the University of Missouri as the assistant equipment manager. He held that post until joining the Stallions in mid-December.

A native of Chattanooga, Tenn., he played football and golf at Red Bank High School. He starred in the latter sport, at one time carrying a handicap of "three or four," he says.

Conner will be assisted this season by Jeff Cornelius, a 22-year-old Banks High of Birmingham and Jacksonville State University graduate. He was a Gamecocks team manager for four years.

Wayne Smith
Director of films

Wayne Smith has filmed every professional football snap ever taken in Birmingham. Now he has his lens focused on the Stallions as the club's director of films.

A resident of the Magic City since 1955, the 47-year-old Alabama native first began filming professional football in 1974. At the time he worked with the Birmingham Americans of the old World Football League.

In 1975 he filmed the Birmingham Vulcans games.

Additional filming assignments include Jacksonville State University (coaching film and coach's television show), 1970-82; University of Alabama in Birmingham basketball, 1978-82, and University of Alabama and Auburn University football.

He is married to the former Miss Nancy Smith of Birmingham. The couple has three children: sons Len, 22, and Todd, 20, and daughter, Elise, 17.

Smith has owned and operated Action Film Labs, Inc., of Birmingham since 1961.

Training Camp

Most of the players didn't believe it when they turned off Beville Road and onto Pelican Bay Drive.

"I've seen a lot of training camps," said 11-year-veteran Tom Banks, "but never anything like this."

"This is out of sight."

"This" is Pelican Bay, an award winning community of 1,000 acres of lakes and trees enhanced by gorgeous homes, villas and condominiums. It is in Daytona Beach, Fla.

It also was the training site for the Birmingham Stallions.

Team players and staff lived in condominiums during their month of preseason training.

The facility has a championship golf course, 10 tennis courts (seven lighted), four indoor, air conditioned racquet ball courts, a superb swimming complex, bike trails, canoeing canals and a complete exercise facility.

Stallions players ate their meals at Pelican Bay's main clubhouse.

May 26—The United States Football League and ABC-TV enter into a firm two-year network television arrangement whereby ABC will telecast a game a week during the USFL season.

June 16—Birmingham franchise of the USFL holds press conference for the purpose of announcing plans for its new team. Ambassador Marvin L. Warner, a Birmingham native and University of Alabama Graduate, is introduced as the team's principal owner and chairman of the board. Mark Warner is named vice chairman of the board and James M. Gould is appointed team president and general manager. Mr. Gould also announces that the team will be called the Stallions and that its colors will be red, white and gold.

July 20—Gould resigns as president and general manager of the Stallions.

August 1—Jerry Sklar, a Louise, Miss. native and long-time Birmingham business and civic leader, is named president of the Stallions.

September 2—Veteran Pittsburgh Steelers offensive line coach Rollie Dotsch is introduced as the head football coach of the Stallions. The press conference is attended by Ambassador Marvin L. Warner, principal owner and chairman of the board of the Stallions; vice chairman of the board Mark Warner; USFL founder Dave Dixon of New Orleans, and Birmingham Mayor Richard Arrington. Mayor Arrington presents keys to the city to Ambassador Warner and Coach Dotsch.

September 28—Former Washington Redskins and Auburn University assistant Jim Hilyer is named special teams—strength and conditioning—coach of the Stallions. "His experience and expertise will help our program tremendously," said Head Coach Rollie Dotsch. "Jim knows what it takes to win in professional football."

October 4—Team president Jerry Sklar and the Birmingham Park and Recreation Board sign a five-year lease which will make Legion Field the home of the Stallions. "This is an important day in the history of the Stallions," said Sklar. "And we are grateful to the Park Board and the City of Birmingham for their confidence in us and what we hope to accomplish. Our major goal is to provide the fans of this area with a competitive, hard-hitting and winning football team. And allowing us the use of a first-rate facility like Legion Field is certainly an incentive for us to work even harder to fulfill that purpose."

October 7—Bob Gates, a veteran scout for the Buffalo Bills of the National Football League, is named director of player personnel for the Stallions. "We are delighted to have a man of Bob's qualifications at the head of our player personnel department," said Stallions team president Jerry Sklar. "He comes highly recommended by people that we greatly respect throughout professional football."

Stallions History

October 12—Pat James, one-time University of Alabama assistant, is named defensive line coach of the Stallions. "Pat has been a great college coach and I know that he will be the same kind of coach in professional football," said Stallions head coach Rollie Dotsch, "because he is a football coach." James, who played for Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant at the University of Kentucky, coached at Alabama from 1958 through the 1962 season.

November 7—Ticket prices for the 1983 season are announced by Stallions team president Jerry Sklar. The prices are $99 ($11 per game) for a season package—nine games—for sideline seats at Legion Field. End zone seats are $63—or $7 per game—for the season.

At the same time, President Sklar announced a Stallions scholarship program to implement the scholarship policy of the USFL. "The Stallions will contribute the sum of $1,000 to the football scholarship fund of each university providing collegiate players who are drafted and sign their first professional contract with the Stallions and make the player roster during their first year of play," Sklar said. "We will provide up to $2,500 scholarship assistance to each player who is drafted and signs his first professional football contract with our ball club. This will enable the player to obtain his college degree by taking his necessary credits during the fall semester."

November 14—Bob Lochamy, former executive director of the Hall of Fame Football Bowl Classic, is named ticket manager of the Stallions.

November 16—Former Auburn University All-American Tom Banks, an 11-year veteran of the National Football League, becomes the first Birmingham Stallions player to sign a contract for the 1983 season. Banks was a four-time All-Pro performer for the St. Louis Cardinals.

November 18—The Board of Directors of the Birmingham Area Chamber of Commerce vote unanimously to provide the Chamber's full support to the Stallions. In making the announcement, Chamber President Jimmy Lee said the Chamber would strengthen its sports development involvement to insure the Stallions' competitiveness with the other 11 franchises in the league. "The Stallions organization is the largest new business to come into Birmingham in a number of years," Lee said. "We plan to commit ourselves to making it the best franchise in the league as far as community and spectator support are concerned—we'll leave the actual winning up to the team."

November 20—Over 250 young ladies from throughout Alabama converge on Legion Field for the first round of auditions for the Fillies Dance Team. The team will appear at all home games and all club functions during the season. At the same time, Stallions team president Jerry Sklar announced that Ms. Karle Julian, a well-known Birmingham model, has been named director of the Fillies.

November 22—The Stallions, determined to give its team “a first class facility,” announce plans to build a $350,000 football operations facility at Legion Field. The new 8,000-square foot facility, which will house the team’s football operations, will be built under the North end zone stands. It will abut the present locker rooms at Legion Field.

November 29—Carl Reese is named an assistant coach by Stallions head coach Rollie Dotsch. “Carl is very well respected throughout the collegiate ranks as one of the really fine young defensive coordinators in the game today,” Dotsch said. “And I am pleased that he has decided to join us. He will be working with our defensive secondary.” Reese was defensive coordinator at the University of Missouri.

December 2—Rich McGeorge, for nine seasons an all-star tight end for the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League, is named receivers and tight end coach of the Stallions. “Rich was a great football player in college and in the pros,” said Stallions head coach Rollie Dotsch, “and was an outstanding college coach (at Duke University). I know he will do us an equally good job.”

December 6—Fourteen former Auburn and Alabama players sign contracts with the Stallions. The ex-Tigers signed include one-time quarterback Charlie Trotman, who will be used at defensive back by the Stallions; linebackers Freddie Smith and Charles Wood; offensive tackles Mike Burrow, Anthony Jones and Marvin Williams, and punter Alan Bollinger. The Alabama group includes wide receivers James Mallard and Tim Clark; offensive guards Lou Green, Bill Searcey and Vince Cowell; tight end Bart Krout and safety Jim Bob Harris.

January 4—The Stallions swap positions in the draft with the New Jersey Generals, picking fourth instead of fifth, and select Southern Mississippi University All-America quarterback Reggie Collier as their No. 1 choice.

January 13—Stallions team president Jerry Sklar announces to a packed press conference audience at the Relay House that Southern Mississippi University quarterback Reggie Collier has agreed to terms and signs a contract with the Birmingham team.

Collier meets
signing contract.

Jimmy Lee, at the time president of the Birmingham Area Chamber of Commerce, had the idea first. He bounced it off Birmingham Stallions team president Jerry Sklar.

"I told Jerry first that I felt very strongly that the team is a community project and needed the support of everyone.

"This was the feeling of the Board of Directors of the Chamber," Lee continued. "The Stallions organization is the largest new business to come into Birmingham in a number of years.

"We plan to commit ourselves to making it the best franchise in the United States Football League as far as community and spectator support are concerned—we'll leave the actual winning up to the team.

"To start this thing off, I would like to see a group of businesses, 100 to be exact—and we (Buffalo Rock-Pepsi Cola) will be the first—purchase 100 season tickets each."

Thus the Stallions' "100 Club" was born.

"For those firms that purchase 100 tickets and join the '100 Club,'" said Sklar, "we will offer several amenities: we will host a cocktail party before every home game for '100 Club' members, there will be privileged parking facilities at Legion Field, and, there will be a big banquet sometime during the year to which each member will be invited."

The Stallions, with a payroll of $2.5 million, are expected to have an impact of $20-$50 million per year on the Birmingham economy.

"Along with the tremendous economic impact, Birmingham will receive broad scale media coverage," Lee said, "which we feel will result in a terrific image boost for the city."

ABC-TV, the Entertainment and Sports Programming Network (ESPN) and the Canadian Cable Network have already signed multi-million dollar contracts to telecast USFL games during 1983.

Chamber officials (l-r) executive director Don Newton, Mr. Lee, current Chamber president Dr. Dudley Pewitt formulate '100 Club' plans.

Stallions Scholarship Plan

To implement the policy of the United States Football League, the Birmingham Stallions established a scholarship program in early November of 1982 that will provide players an opportunity to graduate from their respective colleges and universities. This was announced by Stallions team president Jerry Sklar.

"The very foundation of professional football is the collegiate game," Sklar said. "In addition to providing the athletes with a forum from which they may display their talents, the colleges also offer education and training for young athletes.

"It is no secret, really, that most professional football players do not obtain their degrees. There are some reasons for this: In part, some of the reasons may be because of the all-star game opportunities and the tryout camps which they visit. All of this consumes much of the spring semester and keeps the football player from obtaining the classroom credit.

"In recognition of this circumstance, as well as the impact of the springtime USFL season," Sklar continued, "the Birmingham Stallions are proud to announce the following that implements the USFL policy:

"1. The USFL player draft will be held after the New Year's Day bowl games. Specifically, the first draft will be held on January 4, 1983.

"2. No player will be signed until his college football eligibility is complete.

"3. The Birmingham Stallions will contribute the sum of $1,000 to the football scholarship fund of each university providing collegiate players who are drafted and sign their first professional football contract with the Stallions and make the player roster during their first year of play.

"4. The Birmingham Stallions will provide up to $2,500 scholarship assistance to each player who is drafted and signs his first professional football contract with our ball club. This will enable the player to obtain his college degree by taking his necessary credits during the fall semester."

Continuing, Sklar noted:

"I am very impressed by the commitment I have received from the Stallions principal owner, Ambassador Marvin L. Warner. The Ambassador is completely willing to assist any of our players in obtaining his degree. And, furthermore, Ambassador Warner is dedicated to supporting the football programs of the schools furnishing players to the Stallions."

Sklar acknowledges the issue of "spring dropout," a problem that has received some attention of late.

"The so-called 'spring dropout' problem is one that goes back for many years," Sklar said, "certainly before any thought was given to the formation of the USFL. It is a very natural outgrowth of the career opportunities provided in professional football, and young men pondering that career and the opportunities it would bring them have long recognized that their personal best interests are served by using the spring of their final year of eligibility to enhance their opportunities of being signed to play professional football."

"Obviously," Sklar went on, "the player's compensation will provide him the basis for handling his tuition and other costs associated with completing his college education. But the supplement provided by the scholarship funding will serve as a further inducement to obtain that degree.

"And, speaking for the entire Birmingham Stallions organization, we are all very proud to be part of the introduction of this program."

Jackie Cline shown with President Sklar will return to college at end of the season.

The beauty of professional football stretches beyond the chalk-lined playing field.

Especially in Birmingham.

Check out the sidelines at all Stallions home games, if you doubt it.

Those lovely young ladies are the Fillies, a 30-member dance team that is under the direction of Ms. Karle Julian. The group's Choreographer is Ms. Ruth Ammons.

"The Fillies will dance at halftime and on the sidelines during home games," Ms. Julian said. "We also will attend civic functions—at malls around the city and such—to do promotional work for the Stallions and other businesses.

"Our main function is to serve as public relations representatives."

Rollie Dotsch Show

Thirty minutes of every USFL Sunday from March through the first weekend in July will belong to the head coach of the Birmingham Stallions.

"The Rollie Dotsch Show" will be seen 30 minutes before each United States Football League Game of the Day, Sundays on WBRC-TV, Channel 6 in Birmingham at 12 noon.

The show will feature Dotsch and be co-hosted by Herb Winches, sports director of WBRC.

Highlights of previous Stallions games, player interviews and other features will be presented during the 30-minute format.

Stallions Radio Network

Three of the most honored names in Alabama sports journalism form the radio network team that will broadcast Birmingham Stallions games during 1983.

Jim Fyffe will handle play-by-play, Herb Winches will serve as the color analyst and Dick James will produce features along the sidelines.

Birmingham's WAPI will be the flagship station for the Stallions network which stretches across Alabama and into Mississippi and Tennessee.

Fyffe, also known as the voice of Auburn University football and basketball, is a native of Paintsville, Ky. A 37-year-old graduate of the University of Kentucky, he presently serves as the news director at WLWI radio in Montgomery.

Married and the father of five children, Fyffe has worked in radio in Washington, D.C., Birmingham and Montgomery since his college graduation.

A one-time running back at Jacksonville State University, Winches is sports director at WBRC-TV Channel 6 in Birmingham. Married and the father of one child, this Louisville, Ky., native first worked at WHMA radio in Anniston following his graduation from JSU.

His first venture into television sports was at WHNT in Huntsville (1973-74). He moved to WBRC in Birmingham as sports director in 1975. He remained there until 1980 when he moved to Birmingham's WVTM Channel 13. He returned to WBRC in early 1983.

James, currently news and sports director of WAPI, has worked in Birmingham since 1974. Born in Pittsburgh, Pa., he grew up in Chattanooga, Tenn., and attended and graduated from the University of Tennessee.

After his 1968 discharge from the U.S. Army, James, 37, spent six years as sports director at WDEF-TV in Chattanooga. In 1982 the Associated Press named him the winner of the coveted Best Radio Sports award.

It's trivia time:

What's vocal, terribly supportive of the Birmingham Stallions and dedicated to promoting awareness of the club throughout the city, the State of Alabama and the Southeast?

Guessed the answer yet?

It's a member of the Birmingham Stallions Booster Club.

They are easily recognizable.

They are the people constantly on their feet, waving pennants and wildly cheering every good play made by the Stallions players.

"There are four basic goals that our organization has," said Booster Club president Joe Fuller. "No. 1 is to assist in season ticket sales; No. 2 is to be a catalyst to stimulate the crowd enthusiasm at Legion Field; No. 3 is to assist in the decoration of Legion Field—as far as banners, pennants and the likes—for our games that are on television, and, No. 4 to help promote awareness of the Stallions from the grass roots level."

The Boosters will be meeting weekly throughout the 1983 season and—plan—or hope—to make "at least one out-of-town trip," the president said.

"We also plan to host an awards banquet at the end of the season," Fuller said. "At that time we will select and present to the player a very nice Most Valuable Player Award, and select the Outstanding Stallions Booster Club Member of the Year."

"Our entire membership is elated that professional football—the United States Football League—is in Birmingham. And we plan to support and promote it to the best of our abilities."

"We believe in the Stallions and the USFL."

"Oh, sure," Fuller said, "there is still plenty of time for anybody to join the Booster Club. All one has to do is call the Stallions office—251-USFL—for information. We would love to have as many members as would love to join."

Membership dues are $5.00 an individual and $10.00 per family (including children under 18 years of age).

New Operations Facility

Architectural rendering of Stallions football operations facility.

The Birmingham Stallions, determined to give its team "a first class facility," disclosed in mid-November of 1982 plans to build a $350,000 football operations facility at Legion Field. This was announced by Stallions team president Jerry Sklar.

"We believe very strongly in making this investment. It points to our commitment to Birmingham and our fans. Legion Field provides us with all the ingredients to be a competitive football team."

The 8,000-square foot facility was built under the North endzone stands at Legion Field.

Construction began Nov. 10 with a completion date of January 31. The work was done by Butler Construction Company of Birmingham.

"All phases of the Stallions' football operations will be housed in this new facility," Sklar said. "(Head) Coach Rollie Dotsch will have his office there as will all of his assistant coaches.

"There also will be offices for our Director of Player Personnel; our Director of Films; our Trainer, and our Equipment Manager."

The Stallions executive said there also would be additional "features, such as a 1,000-square foot meeting room; a 1,000-square foot weight room; a 900-square foot training room, and a 1,000-square foot equipment room."

The new Stallions facility abuts the present locker rooms at Legion Field.

"This will make for an even more outstanding training facility," Sklar said, "having everything right there together—the field, training room, coaching offices and dressing rooms."

Legion Field Stadium

Home of the Birmingham Stallions

Nina Miglionico, Jerry Sklar, Mayor Richard Arrington and H. Joe Davis sign contract for Stallions to play at Legion Field.

Fillies Director Ms. Julian, President Sklar with Field General.

He submitted five other nominations, but "Field General" was his favorite choice from the time he picked up his pen until he sealed the envelope and mailed it.

"I didn't expect this, but it's a real treat," Dave Mace, a Birmingham public relations executive said. "There is potential there for a nice spring vacation."

The 32-year-old Huntsville native had just been informed that he was the Birmingham Stallions "Name the Stallions' Mascot Contest" winner.

He chose the name "Field General."

He explained how he arrived at his winning selection.

"I sat down one night," he began, "and wrote down a number of words—as many as I could think of, really—that pertained to things positive about football. Words like quarterback, touchdown and field goal. Then I listed some words that had something to do with a horse: charger, steed...words like that. I itemized my top five combinations of words and submitted them. And, you know, my favorite name, 'Field General,' was the one that was chosen. I liked it mainly because a field general in football is the nickname given to the quarterback, the leader on the field. I think it is a very positive mascot name."

For his winning entry, Mace will receive a free, first-class trip, courtesy of Delta Airlines, to any Stallions away game this year. He also will receive two complimentary 1983 season tickets.

"I congratulate Mr. Mace on his choice of a name," said Stallions president Jerry Sklar. "I agree that 'Field General' is a positive name and our entire football team and organization appreciates that. We are excited about our team and league, the United States Football League. We appreciate the fans everywhere who share this excitement with us."

"Field General" is only the "stage name" of the three-year-old stallion. Its American Quarter Horse Association name is Mr. Blonde Wonder, who was sired by AQHA supreme champion Otoe Wonder. Through his sire, Mr. Blonde Wonder goes back through the immortals Otoe and Sugar Bars to Three Bars. The horse, which stands 15½ hands and weighs 1,200 pounds, stands at Private Treaty in Clay, Ala., at Mountain View Stables under his manager and trainer James Kennedy. He is owned by Larry B. Cowart Quarter Horses of Birmingham.

Some 3,243 names were submitted by the public to the panel which selected the winning name.

Chet Simmons
USFL Commissioner

The career experience and qualifications that Chet Simmons brings to his new position as Commissioner of the United States Football League could be referred to as "the state of the art."

Whereas other leaders of leagues in the various professional sports come from backgrounds in public relations, the law, or actual participation in the sport they administer, Simmons, in an era dominated by television, brings to the USFL a career in sports television that spans four decades.

His background also includes several ventures constructed from the ground up, experience that is immediately applicable to the task of launching the USFL's inaugural campaign.

Prior to accepting the challenge of guiding the USFL, Simmons was president and chief executive officer of the Entertainment and Sports Programming Network, Inc. (ESPN), where his ability to build, organize and manage an all-new entity was a prime factor in ESPN's current recognition as the most successful operation of its kind.

From 1977 to 1979, Simmons was president of NBC Sports, a network he had served as a major sports executive since 1964. During that period, his capacity for organizing new enterprises resulted in the network's strong coverage of baseball, basketball and many other sports, as well as professional football.

He was also a major contributor to the development of the successful Sports World show and was highly instrumental in securing the 1980 Summer Olympic Games for the network.

Simmons began his television career in 1957 when he joined Sports Programs, Inc., which soon developed into the ABC-TV unit responsible for that network's sports programming.

The USFL thus becomes the second professional football league with which Simmons has been directly involved. While with ABC-TV, he was deeply responsible for the development of the television package when the American Football League made its debut.

He continued to work with the AFL when he moved to NBC and that association is recognized as having been extremely important to the AFL's survival through its early years and into its eventual merger with the National Football League.

Simmons was born in New York City and raised both in Ossining, N.Y. and Pawtucket, R.I. An alumnus of the University of Alabama, he did his graduate work in radio and television at Boston University. He and his wife, Harriet, have four children and live in Cos Cob, Conn.
